

PARDON ME

A FILM BY SHUJA MOORE

Join us at PennState Dickinson Law in Carlisle, February 15th at 2:30 PM for the screening of the documentary PARDON ME, which presents the case for how pardons can give individuals the opportunity to live as full citizens and contribute to their best ability, at the same time uplifting the lower-income communities in which they live. The film features interviews with key civic leaders and the stories of two people going through the pardon process, one of whom received a pardon. After the screening there will be a reception held which will run until 5:30 pm.

Registration is free, please contact CCBA@CumberlandBar.com by February 5th to register.
